SUMMER BASEBALL IS A BIG PROBLEM

Colleges Have Abandoned Crusade—Rules Found to be Hard to Enforce.

New York, April 12.—With the baseball season again under way the intercollegiate problem becomes again prominent. It is well known that some of the colleges in the country have entirely given up their efforts of prohibiting the playing of summer baseball for money or its equivalent by their students.

These colleges say that it is not practicable to enforce the amateur rules with regard to this sport; that it has been tried in the past and failed; that it is better to come out squarely and permit the students to play for money under certain restrictions than to prohibit it.

They also say that the efforts to enforce control result in a great deal of hypocrisy and falsifying with a consequent injury to the student body and the summer vacation in play.

These colleges are the following: Cornell, Princeton, Yale, Harvard, and others. They are all in favor of allowing the students to play summer baseball for money, but are not in favor of allowing the students to play for money in intercollegiate contests.

There are other colleges which are endeavoring to control this situation by allowing the students to play for money in intercollegiate contests, but are not in favor of allowing the students to play for money in intercollegiate contests.

HARD TO ENFORCE.

Most of the colleges of the land are endeavoring to apply the amateur rules to college baseball as well as to other forms of sport. These institutions find that it is a most difficult problem, in intercollegiate athletics with which they have to deal. Very stringent rules are necessary, and it is not many students undoubtedly do not understand the fact.

The demand for good baseball players is a great one in this sport-loving country. The amateur rules are found to be a most serious one. Many organizations are dealing with the subject in a most drastic manner and have succeeded in a surprising manner, rules pretty thoroughly to summer baseball among the colleges and universities represented in the intercollegiate Southern association and the Ohio State association and the New England association.

The intercollegiate athletic association has been studying the problem for several years. It obtained a report in 1907 from all parts of the country, which showed that the amateur rule was prevalent among college athletes in all parts of this country. Since then the association has been endeavoring to enforce this law with as much success as it can.

The greatest trouble is that the public and the student body itself are not educated in the matter of amateurism or as to its worth. The matter is to be reported again. The association is making a special study of this problem and it is hoped that some satisfactory solution will be evolved by next December.

SUMMER BALL.

A great deal of interest is manifested in the efforts of Dartmouth to settle this question for itself. The authorities there are endeavoring to educate the student body to the opinion that it is not fair to the professional to compete against the non-professional; that the young man who goes off and spends his summer months in playing professional baseball should not afterward return to college to compete in intercollegiate contests.

It is, however, believed that the young men who need to make money to pay their expenses, and who are not allowed to do so on baseball fields if they can and yet not be deprived of the privilege of playing during the summer months, will not be deterred from doing so. The greatest trouble is that the public and the student body itself are not educated in the matter of amateurism or as to its worth. The matter is to be reported again. The association is making a special study of this problem and it is hoped that some satisfactory solution will be evolved by next December.

SCENE IN PHILLIES-ATHLETIC ANTE-SEASON GAME AND TWO PLAYERS WHO ARE EXPECTED TO SHINE THIS SEASON.

Philadelphia, April 11.—Philadelphia baseball fans have had an opportunity to look over their teams which will contend for honors in the American and National leagues during 1910, and they must be satisfied that the reports which came from the south concerning the Athletics and Phillies were justified. Both teams are in better physical condition than ever before, and there is perfect harmony in both camps, and the fans here may confidently expect a remarkable season locally from every viewpoint. It is hard at this to comment on the two teams and convince the fans that everything is O. K. Many of them figure that because the Phillies have won both games of the interleague series played the Athletics are not the same team that fought Detroit to the bitter end last season. They overlook the fact that Mack's men are not winning the pennant now. The holder of that beautiful rag will be decided on Oct. 8. The first game of the series drew 12,000 fans and the second contest the same. Manager Doolin of the Phillies is sure that Otto Knabe will make Johnny Evers look to his laurels as the best second baseman in the National league this season. Pitcher Cy Morgan of the Athletics is in grand form at present. In the first game he twirled Morgan had curves and a wire which he used to great advantage. He showed close play at third base in first game.

TRAINERS WELL PLEASED WITH CONDITION OF BIG MAN

San Francisco, April 12.—Regardless of the preparation which already has been made to pull off the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Emeryville on July 4, many well informed sporting men are still of the opinion that the battle may never take place. This belief is based on the possibility that Jeffries will find himself unable to come back and will cancel the fight.

There is not one chance in a hundred that Jeffries will enter the ring if he thinks the negro has anything on him or is liable to win. Jim Johnson started training for the battle by tramping through the mountains of southern California and a city friend declared that he never felt better in his life.

When it comes down to cases Jeffries will be the sole judge of his own condition. He is firmly convinced that he will do everything possible to get himself back into the condition he was in when he had nothing to fear from any man who ever lifted a foot in the ring. He will train hard and faithfully and he will try himself out in every possible manner. Then, if he finds that he cannot come back, he will call off the fight.

MAY MAKE MISTAKE.

But Jeffries is very liable to make the mistake of being too confident. He is good as he ever was, at least good enough to beat Johnson. Jeff does not have a very high regard for the ability of the negro and in this he is wrong. He will have to be as good as ever as he has been. Johnson is a very good fighter and he will have to be as good as ever as he has been. Johnson is a very good fighter and he will have to be as good as ever as he has been.

BACK TO FARM FOR FAMOUS MCGOVERN

Terry McGovern wants to buy a farm and get back to the real life. "No more Broadway for me," said the actor. "I'll never fight again. I thought of getting in a training camp somewhere, but I want to get back to nature, now and away from the bright lights. They have put me on the blink, all right."

CLAUS CONTINUES TO WIN VICTORIES

Boston, April 12.—Frank Klaus of Pittsburg won a decisive victory over Jimmy Gardner of Lowell in 12 rounds at the Armory Athletic association today.

TOO COLD TO TRAIN.

Chicago, April 12.—Jack Johnson, who began light training here yesterday for his match with James J. Jeffries, found the gymnasium too cold for work today, and contented himself with an automobile ride into the country.

GLIDDEN PATHFINDER.

Cincinnati, April 12.—The official pathfinder car for the Glidden tour, the national endurance run of the American Automobile association, left here at 10 o'clock today for a three-thousand-mile trip to Chicago by way of Dallas, Tex.

JEFFRIES SHOWS OLD TIME FORM

Puts on Gloves for First Time With Sam Berger as the Victim.

Ben Lomond, Cal., April 12.—For the first time since beginning training Jeffries donned the gloves today in a fast three-round bout with Sam Berger, the bout was scheduled for a longer duration, but after playing his overworked game in the way of several smashing left hooks, Berger decided that his charge was in danger of overtraining and called "the match off."

"I never felt better in my life," said Jeffries, as he playfully doubled Sam up with a wallop in the bracket at the end of the second round.

The third round lasted but a minute and a half, as Berger recalled an important engagement. Jeffries completed the morning's exercise by a 10-mile run along the muddy roads to Boulder creek. During all the boxing, although the going was fast, Jeffries scarcely drew a long breath. He no longer appears exhausted and his energy was derived with the old, smashing drive that made him champion. His footwork leaves much to be desired, although Jeffries never was especially fast in side-stepping and dodging.

SHADOW BOXING.

Immediately after the bout the fighter devoted 15 minutes to shadow boxing, punched the bag for six rounds and was followed by Paumotu Burns and Bob Armstrong. In doubling the punching bag he showed that he was working up remarkable speed and accuracy in hitting, and altogether, the result of the day's work gave much encouragement to his camp followers.

Now that Jeffries really has begun boxing, it is expected that there will be an avoidance of glove work every day. Bob Armstrong will not doubt be called upon to face the big fellow for a few rounds tomorrow, unless the colored heavyweight goes to Los Angeles to assist Sam Langford in Thursday's battle with Jim Barry.

Berger, who was taken slightly ill yesterday, felt much better today and probably will not find it necessary to leave the camp.

Jeffries disappointed newspaper men and friends who had come to the camp by pulling off his boxing exhibition so suddenly that he was even before anyone knew it had been planned. The day's schedule included only some road work and handball and the boxing was sprung upon unexpectedly when Berger "killed" Jeffries about having forgotten how to fight.

JEFFRIES WILL NOT FIGHT UNLESS FIT

San Francisco, April 12.—Regardless of the preparation which already has been made to pull off the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Emeryville on July 4, many well informed sporting men are still of the opinion that the battle may never take place. This belief is based on the possibility that Jeffries will find himself unable to come back and will cancel the fight.

HELP FOR THE BOYS.

Good Work Done by the High Schools of New York City.

E. W. WEAVER, principal of the Boys' high school in Brooklyn, read a letter from a business man in Manhattan a few years ago criticizing the public schools because they did not send out boys properly prepared for business life. The boys whom employers were compelled to hire, he said, could not even write and spell decently and had no habits of punctuality and responsibility.
